Prepare yourself for a feast of golf, history, heritage and culture

Ancient history tells how Clan Munro and Clan Fraser took the castle in 1562 after supporting Mary Queen of Scots during the siege of Inverness. Explore the grounds and enjoy the views over Inverness before your head off on your NC500 journey.

DAY 1

“This Classic Old Tom Morris Championship links is a must for all golfing connoisseurs”

Sir Bob Charles

TAIN GOLF CLUB

Designed in 1890 by Old Tom Morris, the layout of the holes guarantees an interesting round for beginners or experts.

Overlooking the Dornoch Firth, Tain arguably offers one of the best settings imaginable in the highlands for a round of golf . With sea on one side and the backdrop of the mountains behind, every day brings a different aspect to this challenging and beautiful course.

Take a tour of one of Scotland's finest whisky distilleries with a history of more than 170 years

Glenmorangie invites you to explore each step of their whisky making at first hand – and to understand why their award-winning single malt is so wonderfully complex and so enticingly smooth. . . . Unforgettable!

The Glenmorangie Distillery was founded in 1843 by William Matheson in the Scottish Highlands.

Inspired by the Distillery's peaceful surroundings on the banks of the Dornoch Firth, its pure, smooth spirit is distilled in Scotland's tallest stills, matured in the finest casks and perfected by The Men of Tain.

Just 2 hours up the East Coast of the route you'll find the finest Highland hospitality in the sparkling and historic setting of a 5 star awarded exclusive venue.

For more than 600 years, Ackergill Tower has stood majestically above the rugged shoreline at Sinclair Bay on the northernmost tip of Scotland.

Steeped in history, yet with 21st century luxuries, this five star award-winning iconic venue is waiting to greet you.

Enjoy the finest food and attentive, award-winning imaginative dishes with wines handpicked from the cellars.

DAY 2

Start your morning with a visit to the historical Castle and Gardens of Mey. Built between 1566 and 1572, possibly on the site of an earlier fortification, by George Sinclair, 4th Earl of Caithness.

The Queen Mother made the property, the policies, and the farm over to the Queen Elizabeth Castle of Mey Trust, which has opened the castle and gardens regularly since her death. Experience the history and heritage of this beautiful building and this fabulous setting.

A course designed by one of the greatest designers, James Braid. A 5 times Open winner

REAY GOLF CLUB

The course nestles in Sandside Bay with the Pentland Firth and the North Atlantic Ocean visible from every hole on the course.

Often you can have the course to yourself and you can experience golf in the way that it was intended. A game for everybody. It's just you, against the course.

Now it's an afternoon off and a difficult choice ahead. Gin or Whisky distillery visit, or beautiful bays and beaches . . . the choice is yours . . . not an easy one!

Owner Martin will cast his watchful eye over the whole process, using only the heart of the distillation and discarding the heads and tails, to perfect the finest taste for our spirits. We carefully hand fill and wax seal every bottle, before it is numbered and signed at the distillery. Great care is taken throughout the whole process to ensure only the very best will leave this wee distillery in Dunnet!

The beaches and bays of Sandside, Melvich, Strathy, Armadale and Torrisdale will be a feast of beautiful and rugged coast lines that stretch along the Northern coast. Your camera will be exhausted taking in the views and space, and you will enjoy peaceful and tranquil surroundings that make you forget about everything . . . apart from that last birdie putt on the 18th perhaps. A wide choice awaits your late afternoon of sight-seeing in an unspoilt and natural part of the Highlands.
